University of South Carolina
Tenure-Track Assistant Professor Position in Global Health

The Department of Health Services Policy and Management (HSPM), Arnold School of Public Health, University of South Carolina seeks qualified candidates for a tenure-track assistant professor position in global health beginning in fall 2015.

The Arnold School of Public Health is accredited by the Council on Education for Public Health (CEPH). The HSPM Department offers Master of Public Health, Master of Health Administration, and the PhD and Doctor of Public Health degree programs (http://www.sph.sc.edu/hspm/). The department has greatly expanded its global emphasis in academic and research programs, including the PhD program in Taiwan, several Study Abroad programs, and significant extramural research funding in global health. The new faculty member will join a well-established team of faculty members engaged in global health research.

Qualifications: An established/promising record of global health research, a commitment to quality teaching, and a PhD in health economics, health services research, health policy, health care administration/management, or allied field are required. Applicants must have at least one year of relevant post-doctoral research and/or teaching experience. Preference will be given to candidates with a strong record of research and/or training in areas related to health system reform, universal care/coverage initiatives, health equity, healthcare financing, and priority setting in the health sector. A track record of funded global health research is desirable. Alternatively, the candidate’s prior work will reflect strong potential to obtain external funding.

Responsibilities: The successful candidate will develop an externally funded research program and collaborate with colleagues in the school and across the university; teach undergraduate and/or graduate courses; advise and mentor students and fellows; and provide service to the University, profession, and community.

Salary: Competitive, commensurate with experience.

How to apply: A letter of application, curriculum vita, and electronic contact information of three references should be sent by e-mail, with “HSPM Faculty Search” in the subject line to HSPM@ mailbox.sc.edu. Review of applications will begin immediately and continue until the position is filled. The anticipated start date is August 2015.

The University of South Carolina is an affirmative action, equal opportunity institution. Minorities and women are encouraged to apply; our many minority and female students value role models. The University of South Carolina has a generous family leave policy and is responsive to the needs of dual career couples.
